

THE JOURNAL'S EXCLUSIVE NEWS FROM THE TRAINING QUARTERS.

Fitzsimmons Denies Evil Stories Told of Him and Rebukes the Writer Thereof—His Pure and Happy Life at Cook's.

By Robert Fitzsimmons.
(Copyright, 1897, by W. R. Hearst.)
Fitzsimmons's Training Quarters, Carson, Nev., March 4.—I now find myself driven to the extreme of denying one of the most malicious lies sent out of Carson City since my arrival. The San Francisco Chronicle which arrived in this city today contains a story of my acts of drunkenness, and states that I come to town frequently from my quarters, take in the saloons, drink long whiskeys and go home much the worse for my visits. It even goes to greater extremes, and says that I expose myself to all kinds of weather, and that I couple carelessness with intoxication. Such rot is both untrue and malicious. Only on one occasion since taking up my quarters at Cook's Ranch have I been in Carson after sunset, and at that time I was in the company of Martin Julian and Mr. R. H. Davis, the Journal correspondent. The sole object of the visit was to prepare some explanations for photographs taken of myself earlier in the day.

I sat in the Journal headquarters for half an hour and dictated some technical matter for use in the Journal and Examiner, after which we went to the telegraph office about our dispatches and returned to training quarters together. I have not been intoxicated for two years, and am not a drinking man in any sense of the word. When I feel the need of stimulants while training I do not think I am obliged to get permission from any doxy correspondent, who, failing to get facts, resorts to dreams and sends facts that not only make his paper a laughing stock, but injure reputable writers who have a speaking acquaintance with the truth.

I put in a good hard day at training,

M'VEY WAS THE VICTIM.

He Suffered That Corbett Might Gain More Science for the Fray.

MANY FALSE TALES.

They Are Born of Jealousy of the Journal, and Sent Out to Influence the Betting.

Carson, Nev., March 4.—McVey was the victim at Shaw's Springs today, and he is entitled to the respectful sympathy of all of Corbett's friends for his sufferings while promoting the Californian's interests. Corbett's handball and other work was not enough to take the rough edge off his strength, and when 11:45 came and he was ready for wrestling and clinching with McVey, he was full of fight. He wanted to practise hitting in the breakaway after clinches, which will probably be allowed. Both Corbett and Fitzsimmons seem to think they have the best of each work, and as that is the case there does not seem to be any reason to change the Queensberry rules, which do not provide against hitting as long as the men are on their feet. The notion that such hits will be allowed is the cause of McVey's life being so and to him today. He had to mix with Corbett in clinch after clinch. Charley White, of New York, acted as running ten miles this morning and working unusually hard in the gymnasium this afternoon. I find my wrists, protectors of great assistance. They consist of chamois skin pillows large enough to go around my wrist. They are stuffed with soft cotton and are simply tied in place. My sparring partners are so clever at stopping blows that I find it necessary to wear the pads where my wrist comes in contact with their forearms. I am training to win. I will win.

CORBETT'S DEXTER ARM.

The potential member with which it is proposed to knock out Fitzsimmons. At the point where the arm bulges most the tape shows a measurement of 13 1/2 inches. The drawing is one of some hundreds of the fighters taken expressly for the Journal by F. H. Bushnell, of San Francisco.

referee, and made the men break away, ordering McVey to hit Corbett as they were forced apart by White. Try as he would, McVey could not land nor prevent Corbett from hitting him, but, of course, McVey is not match for Corbett.

It Was Almost for Fair.

He did try hard, though, and at one time he and Corbett fought almost in earnest. Corbett had got his glove on McVey's nose and mouth and stopped his wind; McVey, to escape, put his fore arm across Corbett's throat and brought a red flush to his face. For this he got two smashes in the abdomen that made him wince despite the protection afforded by Mr. Pneumonic Wood's patent armor. Then McVey, who is a wrestler, tried the game at which he is best, and twisted Corbett's head and neck a trifle, but he found Corbett his match at that, and the old work of clinch and try to lift in the break away was begun again.

Time and again Corbett tried to show McVey how to do it, but after the wrestler had mastered the blow Corbett had a new device to stop it.

Corbett has learned a great deal about wrestling, and when on his feet is as good as most masters of that science. His neck and breast muscles are hard as iron, the neck being nearly an inch and a half larger when the muscles are distended than it was a year ago. For my own part I was more impressed with Corbett's today than at any time since I first saw him, and what is inexplicable to me is that people should be silly enough to think that lying reports about his condition can possibly receive credence enough to affect the betting, which seems to be the object of the falsehoods sent out about the men's condition.

The star fakir of the gang had Corbett suffering from liver trouble and Fitz drinking. It seems almost like waste of time to deny such rot, but as some may believe it, I will say again that Fitzsimmons has not been drinking and Corbett's stomach and liver are perfectly healthy.

Said Corbett, "These stories are a nuisance, for if Fitzsimmons knows me out, people may say I did not train. If I am whipped on the 17th, I will say that it is because Fitzsimmons is a better man than I ever was in my life."

Now it is a fact of my own observation that Corbett has overworked, rather than underworked, his stomach is in order, and his appetite excellent. As for the liver, however, no one ever saw a billion man goad nature, and Corbett is as amiable and jolly as a schoolboy on a vacation.

Carson, Nev., March 4.—Martin Flaherty, who is to box Dal Hawkins, of California, arrived this morning. He will train at Valley Springs, near Genoa, in company with "Mysterious Billy" Smith.

FIGHT WILL BE FAIR AND SQUARE.

By George Siler.

(Copyright, 1897, by W. R. Hearst.)

Carson, Nev., March 4.—Dan Stuart appears perfectly pleased with the way things are progressing, and is more than satisfied that Fitzsimmons and Corbett mean to put up the fight of their lives. Both men are in earnest, and mean to have it out in a fair and square manner. There have been some undue rumors about regarding the sincerity of the men, but this, Stuart is convinced, comes from what he terms "kickers." I see no reason why anybody should say or even hint there is anything other than what is right in the coming contest.

I know that both Jim and Bob want to win, and am sure no amount of money could tempt either of them to say down. The winner will have clear title to the world's heavy-weight championship, and that in itself means a fortune. Who that will be the public, I hope, will know two weeks from yesterday.

Corbett Corrects Misstatements Made by Malicious Newspapers Concerning His Condition—The Journal Only Prints Authentic News.

By James J. Corbett.

(Copyright, 1897, by W. R. Hearst.)

Training Quarters, Shaw's Springs, Carson, Nev., March 4.—Ever since I came here, under contract to only speak officially to the reading public through the medium of the Journal and San Francisco Examiner, I have been made the subject in other papers of all sorts of misstatements, covering nearly every detail of my work and plans. I have by far too much on my hands to attempt to refute even a small part of these stories, and, besides, my professional experience, both on and off the stage, and a rather amiable temperament, always prompt me to be considerate of men whose business it is to gather news under all sorts of disadvantages.

I especially realize that in the matter of news, pictures and authorized statements in connection with the coming battle the representatives of papers other than the Journal and Examiner have a very trying detail to cover. I make these declarations apropos of a lying story which appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle of yesterday, and which is so destitute of a basis of fact that I marvel at the mendacity of the writer. Somewhere in the inner recesses of his erratic brain he has evolved a theory that I am on the verge of collapse owing to disorders of the liver and stomach of long standing. If he had stopped at this point the story would have possessed a certain picturesque quality lending an artistic touch to the effort, but instead of that, he simply elaborated on a common lie. The logic of his story, even if true, is that the proprietors of a drug store in New York outraged the ethics of the profession by divulging the secrets of the laboratory, and, further, that these gentlemen have a very close personal friend in Carson who is retelling those secrets for the edification of a lying reporter. It seems that Fitzsimmons has been given this important tip. Now, what are the facts? My liver and stomach were never better within my recollection. At no time have I had any trouble with my liver other than a slight torpidity, which the usual correctives promptly relieved. Outside of an occasional derangement of the stomach from specific indiscretions in eating, that organ has never bothered me. What makes this story so inexcusably false is that all my trainers and those who have known me intimately for years know that I have never been so well nor so free from any sort of organic or intestinal irregularity as I am at this moment. As to the drug store in question, I had not had even a bottle of perfume from that establishment in over two years, and I never in my life had a prescription filled there for either liver or stomach troubles. Nor has any kind of medicine been sent to me from a drug store in San Francisco, nor from anywhere else since I have been West this trip. The only kind of "medicine" that has been sent to me has consisted of some Spring chickens, porthouse steaks, pure apple cider and bottled bouillon, and any one seeing me "taking" this medicine would not tip Fitzsimmons to win on the score of my condition. This writer has been notified to keep away from my training quarters in the future. He is aware that I have been as courteous to newspaper people, disadvantaged as they are in this feature of news, as the plain terms of my engagement would possibly permit. And, knowing this, he not only goes in deliberately sending out fake stories to the public, but impudently flashes a camera in my wife's face and seeks to minimize the degree of affection manifested by us when we met after a separation. That may be journalism, but the apt term which occurs to my mind as being appropriate I fancy you would not care to print. It is really none of my business how many fake championship belt stories may be put into circulation, but when it comes to fake stories about me, I reserve the right to object.

FITZ TOSSES DURABLE JACK.

After a Ten-Mile Run and Rub-Down the Fighter "Juggles" His Trainer. The Sheriff Gets $20 of Julian's Good Money.

Carson, Nev., March 4.—Fitzsimmons put in a good day's work. In the morning he ran and walked from eight to ten miles, reaching the grove in time for a rub-down before lunch. Just to show that he was feeling well he caught hold of Steiner in the rub-down annex and literally tossed him on top of the temporary bed on which the massage treatment is given. The affair crashed to the floor with "Durable Jack," who complimented Fitz on his muscle as he picked himself up from among the debris. In the afternoon Fitz had ten rounds at the swinging ball, every round comprising a different form of hitting. Then he donned the large gloves, and with his forearms padded to prevent injury, he sailed into his men, taking them, in turn, for four-minute rounds and half-minute rests. The work was fast and it made evident that Fitz prefers vigorous punching at close quarters to the fancy touches of feinting. The afternoon work lasted for an hour and a half, and the only distress shown by the Californian was what ought to be expected in the case of any athlete handicapped with the fag end of a bad cold.

Martin Julian was rather surprised this afternoon when the District Attorney and a deputy sheriff put in an appearance at the grove and demanded $20, the fee for a theatrical license. It was argued by the officials that the amount was due to the city as an admission fee was charged to see Fitzsimmons spar. Julian tried to explain that the charge was really for the coach ride to the grove and return, but the District Attorney was inexorable. He threatened to have the whole camp arrested and finally Julian agreed to pay $20. A woman signing her self "A San Francisco" has sent Fitz a wish book. She says in her letter that Napoleon always had a charm of that description beneath his pillow on the eve of battle, and she prophesies that if Fitzsimmons does as Napoleon did he will vanquish Corbett.

THE JOURNAL HAS THE ONLY SOURCES OF INFORMATION; OTHERS HAVE TO INVENT STORIES.

STUART DENIES IT.

Aids His Censure to That Already Handed Out to a Fakir.

Carson City, Nev., March 4.—The publication of an article sent from this city in a certain San Francisco paper, and retailed over the country from that point to some newspapers in other parts of the United States yesterday, affecting to deal with the illness of one and the unbridled disposition of another of the principals to the coming contest between James J. Corbett and Robert Fitzsimmons, calls for some sort of statement from me. To begin with, the story was built upon a foundation of intentional and malicious falsehoods. There was not the slightest fundamental fact to the yarn. It was not dignified by the most remote scintilla of truth. Mr. Corbett has been in continuous good health ever since he arrived. Mr. Fitzsimmons, naturally of an asthmatic bent, has not touched a drop of liquor other than the ordinary pugilist in active training with a slight cold would take. If there is any one thing more gratifying than another to me it is the zeal, sincerity and resolution displayed by the men under contract to me to engage in a battle for the championship of the world here on the 17th of this month. The sole annoyance caused by the publication lies in the fact that I should be called upon publicly to denounce as false and unprovoked a story printed in a presumptuous and venal newspaper, which has no right to the vapors of an irresponsible reporter to touch for it. Respectfully, DAN A. STUART.

Teddy Hale Back in New York.

Teddy Hale, winner of the Madison Square Garden six-day race, arrived in New York yesterday from Chicago, where he was an unsuccessful competitor in the recent day and night affair in that city. Hale will be at the Brooklyn cycle show next week, and will show his condition to-night in a record breaking trial. His condition to-night is slightly improved.

Johnny Johnson is Stronger.

Brooklyn, Ont., March 4.—Thomas W. Egan, John S. Johnson's manager, arrived here today to sign Johnson for the sparring racing team. After a consultation with Johnson's physician, Egan is convinced Johnson will be up to his old tricks again this year and expects he will show his condition to-night in a record breaking trial. His condition to-night is slightly improved.

New York A. C. Swimmers' Race.

A couple of swimming races at 110 yards and 220 yards, respectively, were held in the tank at the New York Athletic Club last night. The events being confined to members. Louis Fitzgerald finished first in each race. Rawlins, W. E. Dickey and Dr. Davis seeing the other participants.

SUBURBAN DATE FIXED.

Order in Which the Big Events of the Coming Race Season Will Be Run.

The dates for the principal stakes of the season were announced in yesterday's Racing Calendar. On the opening day at Morris Park, May 8, the Metropolitan Handicap and Juvenile will be run. The other events are arranged as follows:

May 11, Galety, First Private Race for two-year-olds, and St. Nicholas Handicap; May 13, Bouquet and Toboggan Handicap; May 15, Withers, Crofton Handicap and New York Steeplechase Handicap; May 18, Lorraine and St. Nicholas Handicap; May 20, Second Private Race, and Baychester; May 22, Ladies, Clarence Handicap and International Steeplechase Handicap; May 25, Fashion and Potomac Handicap; May 28, Eclipse and Hunt Steeplechase; May 30, Belmont, Amateur Cup and Van Cortlandt Handicap.

The order of events at the Sheepshead Bay June meeting is given as they will probably be run:

June 22, Double Event and Suburban; June 24, Daley and Swift; June 25, Fawn and Grass Handicap; June 26, Zephyr, Corner Island Handicap and Sturges Cup; June 29, Surf and Tide; June 30, Spring and Bay Handicap; July 1, Papyrus; July 3, June and Spindrift; July 5, Great Trial, Sheepshead Bay Handicap and Grand Island Handicap; July 10, Vernal, Long Island Handicap; July 10, Double Event and Suburban.

Messrs. C. Fleischmann & Son's Shakespeare II. has been struck out of the Metropolitan Handicap and Mr. James R. Keene's St. Cloud out of the Withers and Belmont of 1897.

For the Belmonts Spring meeting the closed events have been arranged as follows:

April 17, Arlington; April 19, Federal; April 20, Eastern Steeplechase; April 21, Mount Vernon; April 22, Congressional and Washington Handicap.

Made Rings Round the Crescents.

The hockey players of the St. Nicholas Skating Club scored an easy victory over the Crescent Club of Brooklyn, last night at the St. Nicholas rink, by a score of 11 to 1. The game was one-sided from the start, and the goals for the home team were made as follows: Larned, 7; Callender, 2; and Wrenn, 2. Post made the solitary tally for the visitors. The referee was McCabe, of the N. Y. A. C. and the time of halves was twenty minutes each.

West Point Cadets' Indoor Games.

The military cadets at West Point will hold an indoor athletic meeting in their gymnasium on March 13, and the affair promises to be a feature in the history of the institution. The programme will consist of track and field events, as well as machine and gymnastic exhibitions. A thousand invitations have been issued and a special train will carry late guests from Gotham to and from the Academy.

STUDENTS SEEK CONTROL.

Columbia Boys Want to Break Away from the Graduate Power Over Athletic Societies.

The Columbia University Union still comes in for some severe criticism from the general body of students. Founded as it was three years ago for the purpose of encouraging and controlling various interests, athletic and otherwise, and for the promotion of a closer relation between the students and graduates, the union has signally failed to accomplish these results.

The chief reason for the cause of dissatisfaction is that the union has attempted more than it could possibly handle without showing favor to one or other of the branches it had taken under a wing. It is composed of six graduate directors appointed annually by the Standing Committee of the alumni, together with the various officers of the different athletic teams, numbering thirteen in all. Each branch of sport, therefore, is dependent on the union body for any concessions or special privileges needed, with the result that there has been no little jealousy and consequent ill-feeling, when one or other of the branches has been deemed to be receiving a freer rein in the general conduct, financial and otherwise, of their particular hobby.

There are several reasons, therefore, for what a radical change will be adopted, sooner or later. At a meeting of the union held a few days ago, under the presidency of F. S. Hanges, a committee was appointed to draw up amendments to the constitution and by-laws, and the matter was referred to Dr. Otto, G. T. Kirby and R. W. Prescott.

It is understood that the changes contemplated will insist on the jurisdiction of the union body for any concessions or special privileges needed, with the result that there has been no little jealousy and consequent ill-feeling, when one or other of the branches has been deemed to be receiving a freer rein in the general conduct, financial and otherwise, of their particular hobby.

All that is asked is that the union should assume a purely advisory jurisdiction over the various college societies at Columbia. This is the sentiment among the student body, who desire to control their own amusements. It is but an echo of the policy adopted by the Intercollegiate Athletic Association at their annual meeting last Saturday, and the elimination of graduate power over student athletics of all kinds will doubtless extend to all colleges sooner or later.

"YANKEE" HORSES LIKED.

Diakka's Light Weight in the Lincolnshire Arouses Some Severe Criticism.

In view of the fact that the American turf has been represented of late in England only by animals considered very moderate so far as their form had been exposed here, there is every reason to regard the results achieved as most satisfactory. That Diakka should be installed favorite for the Lincolnshire Handicap is considered very reasonable in England. One critic says: "In what little betting there is on the Lincolnshire Handicap, I am not surprised that Diakka should be most fancied. This is a very improved horse. He has done a lot of work during the winter, and I think he will go very close."

"In any lot I might select to find the winner," says another expert, "I should certainly include Diakka, at 7 stone 7 pounds (105 pounds). He is a very improved four-year-old, and although La Sagasse looks to have the best of it on their running in the Derby Cup last year, I think Diakka will have made the more improvement since then, and he has been doing more work all through the winter than anything else at Newmarket."

Mr. John Corlett, writing in the Sporting Times, goes so far as to take Major Egerton severely to task for what he terms the "extraordinary" handicapping of Diakka as compared with other horses in the race. Diakka in his opinion has been treated with extraordinary leniency. Major Egerton, Mr. Corlett says, "has again acted on the principle that has so often brought him to grief—practically ignoring a horse's best performance and being guided by his worst."

Of the running of Montauk, in the Worcester-Hampton Hurdle Handicap, a close observer writes: "Among his five opponents he was asked to give a year and 11 pounds to Ladous, while he was only receiving 9 pounds from the aged Swaledale. The latter naturally started favorite at 5 to 2. Swaledale and Ladous made most of the running, till the weight told its tale on the second, two hurdles from home. Ladous then looked all over a winner, but Montauk challenged him at the last hurdle and gradually getting on terms, won easily at last by three parts of a length. This was a really good performance, and this colt is evidently going to be very useful indeed over hurdles. It must not be forgotten that he was thought by his connections to have an outside chance for last year's Derby, and although he has been a disappointment on the flat up to now, he is quite certain to make up for it 'over the sticks,' and let us hope, later on, over fences."

"Montauk has never been beaten yet."

under National Hunt Rules, and this last performance of his shows that it will take something very smart indeed to do it.

It would be worth going a thousand miles to see a race between him, Atholath, and Soliman at weight for age."

F. P. KEENE SELLS HORSES.

Some of His Thoroughbreds in England to Be Put up at Auction.

The latest issue of the English Racing Calendar to hand announces that Mr. Foxhall Keene will sell at auction in London, with Messrs. Tattersall, four of his thoroughbreds. These are all four-year-old fillies, maidens, as follows: Brown filly, by Morion, out of Mere Hill, by Macgregor; brown filly, by St. Serf, out of Maid of Dorset, by Dutch Skater; chestnut filly, by Barendine, out of Stephanotis, by Springfield, and bay filly, by Hampton, out of St. Cyria, by St. Gatien.

The same issue of the Calendar contains the announcement that veterinary certificates of the ages of Mr. August Belmont's horses, including Keenan and six two-year-olds, and of Mr. H. K. Vignat's two two-year-old fillies, bay filly by Salvador, out of Redoute, and bay filly, by Imp. Candemans, out of Carissima, have been duly lodged with Messrs. Weatherby.

More Corbett Money in Boston.

Boston, Mass., March 4.—Betting was light here today on the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, but such bets as were made were with the odds on Corbett. The prevailing odds were 10 to 8. More Corbett money has shown up in the last two days. A few good-sized bets were made in Lynn and Haverhill.

ONE HONEST MAN

Dear Editor: Please inform your readers that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter the plan pursued by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness, night losses, and weak, shrunken parts.

I have no scheme to extort money from any one. I was robbed and swindled by quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but, thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and anxious to make this certain means of cure known to all.

Being nothing to sell or send C. O. D., I want no money. Address JAMES A. HARRIS, Box 224, Delray, Mich.

MRS. CORBETT GETS HALF.

Her Husband Has Promised to Cut the Purse with Her.

Omaha, Neb., March 4.—James S. Taylor, of this city, father-in-law of Corbett, says that Corbett has promised half the prize money, and as Taylor knows his son-in-law's generous nature, probably better than any one, he has no doubt who would get it, for he is sure as he was alive that Corbett would win hands down.

"I spent a week with Jim in St. Louis about six weeks ago," said Mr. Taylor, "and I never saw him drink a drop of anything but vichy. He was then in splendid condition, but there were some papers telling how he was all out of shape, and such bluff all the time I was there. The fact is Jim is in shape all the time."

MEN CURED FREE.

The Private Formula of a Noted Physician Made Public.

WEAKENED MANKIND MAY NOW GRASP A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY.

After many years of physical weakness, made a thousand times worse by mental suffering and despondency, a resident of Kalamazoo, Mich., discovered the secret of a famous old world specialist's renowned success and was entirely cured after a few days' use of his remedy.

He is feeling so good and so overjoyed to get back vigor that he has had the formula analyzed and prepared so that any man may use it and thus cure himself.

It is a remarkable remedy and a positive cure for any of the troubles that arise from misguided practices of youth, indiscreet excess among married men and the atrophied condition that nearly always follows excess. It gives needed strength and development at once. He sends the formula absolutely free of charge to all men who are honestly in search of such a treatment, and a request to him for the formula stating you wish to give the remedy a trial will be answered promptly. Mr. Olds reserves the right to refuse all applicants whom he believes are merely writing to him out of idle curiosity. A request to Mr. H. C. Olds, Box 1,820, Kalamazoo, Mich., will be rewarded by this wonderful free formula sent in a perfectly plain and sealed envelope.

As an additional evidence of good faith readers are requested to cut out this notice so that Mr. Olds may know how you came to write to him.
